Dear Mary,

I enclose the receipt for the insurance. Will you please call their attention to the fact that they have my middle initial wrong. It was correct on the envelope, so I expect that it is simply an error of the stenographer but its better to have every thing correct.

I am glad that the room is all right for the return. At present it looks as if travel in England would not be possible this summer. My but I am sorry to have England in such a mess.

Take the money for my tickets and for yours as well from my account in the bank.

Will you ask Henry about the B and O stock and bonds. I understand that the lease of the B and O trane into New York from the Pennsylvania Union Depot expires next year and will not be renewed which will mean that the B and O trains will have to use the ferries again. I think that I shall be glad to take them on that account for I used to enjoy the ferry rides but I imagine that it will acctually cut down the passenger trafic a lot. I think that the Ba nd O refused to join in the expense of the Union Depot while it was being built. I thnik that all my B and O stuff is only 4 % so that if I lost nothing on the sale I might be getting 6 % safely on the money. At any rate will you please ask Henry.

How is his back. I wish that he could get over that trouble. Poor man, he has enough to worry him without his own back.

I am glad that the two invalids are getting along so fine.y.

Cunningham is coming to New York to see is to-morrow.

With love,

Hermin
